

Jill and Evan first met in 2002 as students at the University of Delaware. They had mutual friends and were even in a Jewish student group together, but lost touch once they were out of school. In 2009, Jill received a call from a friend who wanted to set her up with the perfect guy, who lived nearby and had also attended the University of Delaware. Little did Jill know that this "perfect guy" was Evan! Upon speaking, the two immediately realized their connection from the past and hit it off.

After just two dates, Jill and Evan officially became a couple. They had been together nearly a year when Evan began dropping hints about proposing. After dinner one evening, they drove home to Evan's condo. "He told me to close my eyes as he went upstairs. Then he told me to come up, and he was on one knee holding a ring with two dozen red roses," Jill reminisced. The couple became engaged and immediately began planning their July 17, 2011 wedding.

The decision to hold their wedding at The Rockleigh was an easy choice for Jill and Evan. "The Rockleigh was the first place we went to that had everything we wanted," the bride commented. "It provided an elegant indoor ceremony room, allowed us to have cocktail hour inside and outdoors on a patio, and had a stunning reception room overlooking a pool and fountain."

The Rockleigh

1. Guests were informed of Jill and Evan's nuptials with ivory and navy invitations that were embellished with ivory ribbon. 2. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses embellished with diamond crystals. The stems were wrapped in her uncle's tie and her grandmother's scarf. 3. The couple said they felt very comfortable with their photographer Brett, and truly enjoyed working with him. "He was professional, funny, and made us feel at ease the whole time," Jill remarked. 4. During their Jewish ceremony, the couple was married with Jill's great-grandmother and Evan's grandfather's wedding rings- a special tradition to the bride and groom. 5. The Rockleigh designed an elegant four-tiered vanilla wedding cake, which was served for dessert along with a luxurious Viennese table. 6. Overlooking the gorgeous pool with fountains, the ballroom was decorated beautifully in the couple's color scheme. Set on ivory table linens were tall vases filled with navy flowers, yellow roses, and white hydrangea. 7. Jill's favorite memory of the day was when the band, Mission Dance, pulled her and Evan onstage to dance to "Livin' on a Prayer" by Bon Jovi. 8. Jill and Evan chose to take their formal photographs on the grounds at The Rockleigh prior to the ceremony. 9. After their elegant, romantic wedding, Jill and Evan escaped to Aruba for a week-long honeymoon. They are enjoying life as a married couple and hope to start a family one day.
